party, that is just one entry. Then you enter, independent but it is simply necessary. Senator Dickinson talked about the financial aspects in a metropolitan area, I am talking again about the smaller counties. The county clerk has to get out the maps. That person has to be checked out, whether he or she lives in the county. Then it has to be checked out which precinct that person lives in. Then it has to be checked out in which ward, in which town. Then it has to be checked out in which school district. This is all necessary and that takes a while to do and a temporary helper in the polling place is simply not able to do that. The result of that kind of registration would be that it has to be done all over again at the county court house. So again, unfortunately, I do not see any technical possibility to do that.

SPEAKER: The Chair recognizes Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: I have a question I would like to ask Senator George and this is really for clarification.

SPEAKER: Senator George, do you yield?

SENATOR GEORGE: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator George, in your county when somebody goes to register and vote, how much time does that person have to spend registering.

SENATOR GEORGE: Well, I gave you right now all the steps and maybe you can figure that out, how much it will take.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: All right. Then, here is what I am going to ask you?

SENATOR GEORGE: The basis of that has to be, #1, that the County Clerk will go and take out a map and establish where that person lives. Then it has to be established, does the person live in the county? Then it has to be established which precinct of the county. Then it has to be established if the person lives in an incorporated town, in which ward of that. Then it has to be established in which school district. The average person registering does not know in many, many cases in which precinct he or she lives. The average person doesn't know in which township he or she lives. The average person doesn't know in which ward he or she lives and the average person very often doesn't know in which school district he or she lives.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Senator George, that answers the question but it seems to me that Senator George's county clerk ought to talk to the clerk in Douglas...I mean the election commissioner in Douglas County to learn how to refine that procedure. It didn't take me three minutes, if I remember correctly. Now this was a good while ago. Even though you had to be twenty-one when I did register to vote for the first time, that still was a considerable number of years ago. Not as considerable as for some of us in this body, but nevertheless, I think I remember them asking my date of birth, my name, naturally, my address, my party preference and that was about it. Then they ask you...I think you swear or affirm something or other and
